

Contributors

ARJUN Subrahmanyam is a Senior Lecturer in Southeast Asian History at Murdoch University in Perth, Western Australia. He is the author of Amnesia: A History of Democratic Idealism in Modern Thailand (SUNY Press, 2021) and co-author (with Sandra Wilson, Michael Sturma, Dean Aszkielowicz and J. Charles Schencking) of The U.S. and the War in the Pacific, 1941-1945 (Routledge Press, 2022). Among his forthcoming articles: a study of Thai police murders in the early Cold War Period; a history of Australian Army diplomacy in Thailand; and a history of the Thai working class in the 1940s and 1950s. Contact: a.subrahmanyam@murdoch.edu.au.

Chris BAKER is the Honorary Editor of the Journal of the Siam Society. Contact: chrispasuk@gmail.com

Katherine BOWIE is a Vilas Distinguished Achievement Professor in the Department of Anthropology at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and is former President of the Association of Asian Studies. She received a BA with Distinction from Stanford University and her MA and PhD from the University of Chicago. She has served as Director of UW-Madison's Center for Southeast Asian Studies, Eisenhower Fellow to Thailand, Fulbright Scholar, President of the Midwest Conference of Asian Affairs, and multiple years on the organizing committees for the Council of Thai Studies (COTS). Her publications include Rituals of National Loyalty: An Anthropology of the State and the Village Scout Movement in Thailand (Columbia University Press, 1997); Voices from the Thai Countryside: The Necklace and Other Short Stories of Samruam Singh (University of Wisconsin Southeast Asia Series, 1998), and Of Beggars and Buddhas: The Politics of Humor in the Vessantara Jataka in Thailand (University of Wisconsin Press, 2017). Her articles have appeared in such journals as American Anthropologist, American Ethnologist, Journal of Asian Studies and Comparative Studies in Society and History. Contact: kabowie@wisc.edu

BUNPOD Pijitkamnerd is an Assistant Professor of Information Science, a Library and Information Science lecturer, and a lecturer in Applied Technology at Suan Dusit University in Bangkok. He received his Ph.D. in Quality Information Technology from Pethchaburi Rajabhat University, Pethchaburi. His research interests include library science, information science and data analytics. Contact: bunpod\_pij@dusit.ac.th

Lia GENOVESE holds a PhD from SOAS-University of London for a Dissertation titled 'The Plain of Jars of North Laos - Beyond Madeleine Colani'. She has lectured at Thammasat and Silpakorn Universities in Bangkok, and at SOAS-University of London.

Her current projects include a critical biography of Madeleine Colani, the French archaeologist, and a book on André Malraux, the French intellectual, based on recent archival research. She is a Member of the Siam Society's Lecture Committee and is the recipient of the IPPA Professional Prize awarded in November 2022. Her publications are available as open access on her Academia page (<https://independent.academia.edu/LiaGenovese>). Contact: trinacria\_1955@yahoo.co.uk

Volker GRABOWSKY is Professor of Thai Studies at the Asia Africa Institute, University of Hamburg. He is author or co-author of several books on the history and culture of Tai ethnic groups, including the translations and analyses of Tai Lü chronicles, such as Chronicles of Chiang Khaeng (2008) and Chronicles of Sipsòng Panna (2012). Since 2011 he has directed various projects pertaining to manuscript cultures of the Tai peoples in the Upper Mekong valley. Among his most recent publications is the edited volume, Manuscript Cultures and Epigraphy in the Tai World (Silkworm Books 2022). Contact: volker.grabowsky@uni-hamburg.de

Rachel HARRISON is Professor of Thai Cultural Studies in the Department of Languages, Cultures and Linguistics at SOAS University of London. She has published widely on issues of gender and sexuality, modern literature and cinema in Thailand as well as the comparative literature of South East Asia and more broadly on the political significance of cross-cultural understanding. In addition to her co-edited volume (with Peter A. Jackson) on The Ambiguous Allure of the West (2010), she has edited a volume of chapters by Thai authors on the question of Western theoretical approaches to Thai literary analysis, entitled Disturbing Conventions: Decentering Thai Literary Cultures (Rowman and Littlefield International, 2014). She is currently working on an edited collection relating to a recently completed AHRC-funded research project in culture, wellbeing and public health relating to diet and disease in Northeast Thailand, Laos and Cambodia. Contact: rh6@soas.ac.uk

Stefan HELL is a historian and a visiting research fellow at Chulalongkorn University's Department of History. He is the author of The Manchurian Conflict: Japan, China, and the League of Nations, 1931-1933 (in German), Siam and the League of Nations: Modernisation, Sovereignty and Multilateral Diplomacy, 1920-1940, and Siam and World War I: An International History (in English and Thai versions). He has also co-edited books, authored articles and contributed to the Bangkok Post. His current research focuses on the history of Franco-Thai relations during the Holocaust and on the confluence of architecture, religion and politics in Vietnamese history. Contact: stefanhell@me.com

Eiji MURASHIMA is a professor emeritus at Waseda University, Tokyo. He began his research on modern Thai history in 1974 and has published several Thai-language books. He is currently researching Buddhist exchange between Japan and Thailand in the late 19th and the early 20th century. Contact: murashim@waseda.jp

Susan NEEDHAM is a Professor of Anthropology at California State University Dominguez Hills. She has conducted ethnographic and linguistic research on symbols of community identity and the re-creation and transmission of Khmer literacy, ritual practices, and the arts in Long Beach, California since 1988. She is a co-founder of the Cambodian Community History and Archive Project located at the Historical Society of Long Beach, and co-author with Karen Quintiliani of the book, Cambodians in Long Beach. Contact: sneedham@csudh.edu

NUAON Khrouthongkhieo is an Associate Professor of History of Art and a lecturer in the Department of Visual Art at Rajabhat Sakon Nakhon University in Sakon Nakhon. She received her Ph.D. degree in history from Chulalongkorn University and her research interests are in the history of Thai art. She has published articles in various journals and books and her current research examines Thai mural paintings in Suphanburi province. Contact: leknualon2514@gmail.com

POTPREECHA Cholvijarn holds a PhD in Buddhist Studies from University of Bristol, UK. He is the author of Nibbana as self or not-Self: Some contemporary Thai discussions, “Meditation Manual of King Taksin of Thonburi” and “Buddha, Dhamma and Sangha yantras: An Ayutthaya period meditation manual from Wat Pradusongtham”. He is currently a special lecturer at Thai Studies Centre, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Contact: jakcholvijarn@hotmail.com

Nicolas REVIRE, born French, holds a doctoral degree from the Université Paris 3–Sorbonne nouvelle. He specializes in the Buddhist art and archeology of early Southeast Asia, with a research focus on premodern Thailand, Myanmar, and Cambodia. He is general editor of Before Siam: Essays in Art and Archaeology (2014) and Decoding Southeast Asian Art: Studies in Honor of Piriya Krairiksh (2022). After nearly two decades of teaching at Thammasat University in Bangkok, he is presently the Daniel F. and Ada L. Rice Research Fellow at The Art Institute of Chicago, serving both the Departments of Arts of Asia and Curatorial Documentation and Research. Contact: nrevire@artic.edu

Javier SCHNAKE received his PhD at the École Pratique des Hautes Études where he is currently a guest lecturer and a member of the Groupe de Recherches en Études Indiennes in Paris. His research focuses on Pali literature and inscriptions from mainland Southeast Asia, with a particular interest in Thailand. He recently published a critical edition of the Vajirasāratthasaṅgaha and its commentary for the Pali Text Society (2021). Contact: javier.schnake@ephe.sorbonne.fr

SILPSUPA Jaengswang is a postdoctoral researcher at the Centre for the Study of Manuscript Cultures (CSMC) and a lecturer for Languages and Cultures of Thailand (Thai Studies) at University of Hamburg. She received a PhD degree in Thai and Lao Studies from University of Hamburg in 2019 with the dissertation, Relationship between Anisong Manuscripts and Rituals: A Comparative Study of the Lan Na and

Lao Traditions. Her fields of specialisation are Tai manuscript cultures, ritual studies and Thai literature. Funded by Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG), her ongoing postdoctoral research focuses on Anisong manuscripts of Tai people in relation to new printing technologies since the late 19th century. Contact: silpsupa.jaengsawang@uni-hamburg.de

SUNAIT Chutintaranond is a former professor of history, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. He was Director of the Institute of Asian Studies and Dean of the Graduate School, Chulalongkorn University. He is interested in Southeast Asian History especially Thai-Burmese Relations. He has published many academic works in the field of Southeast Asian History. Currently, he is Director of the Center of Multicultural Studies and Social Innovation, Chulalongkorn University. He won the 2020 National Excellence Research Award from the National Research Council of Thailand. Contact: sunait.c@chula.ac.th

TITIYA Netwong is an Assistant Professor of Information Science, a Library and Information Science lecturer, and a lecturer in the Information Technology department at Suan Dusit University in Bangkok. She received her Ph.D. degree in educational communications and technology from Chulalongkorn University. Her research interests include computer education, instruction for special needs learners, MOOCs, AR, GIS for civil engineering, tourism, and information science. Contact: titiya\_net@dusit.ac.th